JACQUES ADNET

DESCRIPTION

The Adnet Coffee Table was originally designed by French Modernist Jacques Adnet (1901 - 1981) in the 1950's. Adnet was always ahead of contemporary trends and became famous for his avant-garde designs and unusual combination of leather, metal and glass. The iconic Adnet Coffee Table exemplifies everything the French architect and interior designer stands for and perfectly merges his Art Deco style with his strong commitment to functionalist principles. Placed on three soft curved metal legs, elegantly meeting in the heart of the table, the round glass top is edged with a hand-made leather rim and adorned with three gilded brass rings. The timeless design of the Adnet Coffee Table embodies modern materials and superb craftsmanship and adds a distinctive value to any home or professional space.
