DESCRIPTION

Living in the clouds... the view of the sky has fascinated us since the beginning of time promisingly bright when the cumulus clouds build up like thick, white balls of cotton wool. Disquieting and full of energy when a storm is brewing over the sea. In Heiter Bis Wolkig, Jan Kath brings the sky to the living room floor. Even though the featured weather conditions are still as dramatically opulent and powerful, the carpets never appear brash, but have a calming effect on the soul and eyes. Up to 30 grey tones are used in the carpets. The material mix to typical for Jan Kath's carpets hand carded and hand spun Tibetan highland wool and Chinese silk gives the design a special depth and three dimensionality.
