

SNOW RECTANGULAR DINING TABLE - 9408

COLLECTION
POWELL & BONNELL

DESIGNER
DAVID POWELL & FENWICK BONNELL

DESCRIPTION

Fenwick's fascination with how elements can be repeated, rotated and rearranged to create different shapes and silhouettes were inspirational in the design of the Snow Dining Table. Canadian artist Michael Snow, for whom the table is named, shared a similar fascination as pictured in his sculpture Walking Woman. When asked why the single leg in a different finish Fenwick responded "The single leg in a different finish draws your eye to the unusual personality of that element. It is exceptional in a playful, perhaps provocative, way. But every leg could be different which also be very cool. It's an opportunity to be creative and highly personal".
